CadreMen Press Announces Debut Release of Soldiers of the Kingdom

"Soldiers of the Kingdom is written for the Christian men who sail out of the safe harbors of home and Church, and into the violent waves and killing cold of modern society. This book is written for men who seek to rescue "fellow sailors" from graves of sin and separation from Jesus Christ. Today is the day to start soldiering for the Kingdom."

Kirk Hunt, Author of Soldiers of the Kingdom

Godly men across America and the world are soldiering on the "front lines" of work and home. While being blessed by many Godly authors and writers, laymen often feel something is missing. Since that Pastor, Theologian or Evangelist is "isolated" from the "day-to-day" battles of "regular guys," much of what he's saying seems beyond the ability or grasp of everyday men. Deep in the heart and mind of Christian men, there is a spot reserved for a book that really speaks to fellow "grunts." That "missing something" is a layman's viewpoint on the daily battles that all Christian men fight in a sinful world. Soldiers Of The Kingdom attempts to fill that empty spot on the Christian Man's bookshelf.

It is critical that each Christian soldier fulfill his part in the Army of God. Soldiers Of The Kingdom introduces men to various soldiering roles from modern armies. Soldiers ties those roles first to Biblical Men as examples, then to Scriptural "marching orders" as divine imperative. Since no Christian man is excluded from a warrior's role, the only question is the exact nature of his individual assignment. Soldiers Of The Kingdom ends with a call to "finish strong" in their own homes, work places, and ultimately God's Kingdom.

The author is prayerful that Soldiers Of The Kingdom is a work you will not just enjoy but find a source of encouragement and motivation. If you have any questions, please contact CadreMen Press at info@cadremenpress.com.
